

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

INTRODUCTION.

THE parish of Newchurch once formed a part of the ancient parish of Winwick, in the hundred of West Derby in the County Palatine of Lancaster. It comprises the townships of Culcheth (now called Newchurch) and Kenyon, and the hamlets of Holcroft, Pesfurlong, Risley and Bury Lane, and at one time included that portion of Bury Lane now called Glazebury. Newchurch is approached by road from Leigh on the north and Warrington on the south, and by rail from Kenyon Junction and from Culcheth Station on the Cheshire Lines Railway. The parish is bounded on the north by Leigh, on the south by Padgate and Warrington, on the east by Cadishead and Glazebrook and on the west by Lowton and Winwick.

The Church, originally a chapel-of-ease to Winwick, was probably built before 1530, a tower being added in 1691. Colonel John Holcroft, of parliamentary fame, bequeathed a gold chain towards the rebuilding of the nave which was destroyed and again erected in 1753, as we learn from a line in the registers. The whole structure of red brick with stone quoins, although largely overgrown with ivy, could hardly be described as beautiful, its squat tower being almost overshadowed by a broad and somewhat ungainly nave of no pretensions to architectural style. In the early hours of Sunday, April 19, 1903, the building was burned to the ground, with the sole exception of the tower, a portion of which served as a vestry, the fire having arisen probably through the overheating of the flues. All the stained windows, frescoes, and sepulchral monuments—none of the inscriptions having been previously copied—perished, as well as the pews and other fittings. Over the altar was a copy of a painting by Raibolini, the original of which is in the National Gallery, and three stained-glass windows had recently been inserted to the memory of Thomas Wilson (Bishop of Sodor and Man), Dr Black (the late Rector), and Queen Victoria. Fortunately the registers, the valuable plate, the bells, two dated collecting-boxes of 1663*, the brasses, and two portraits of former incumbents were rescued from the conflagration and are now preserved in the present church.

In September, 1904, sufficient funds having been subscribed a stately edifice of stone, consisting of a nave with six bays of "Norman" arches, chancel, north and south aisles, clergy and choir vestries, and a tower, having been erected, the consecration ceremony was conducted by the Bishop of Liverpool.

Stone tablet. "To the memory of Enoch Sankey, who died March 3rd, 1904, aged 81 years, for 25 years Churchwarden of Newchurch Parish Church. Erected by the Church officers and friends."

Two monumental brasses, once nailed upon the panelling in the vestry at the base of the tower, were rescued from the fire of 1903. The larger one, in memory of William Ratclyff, 1560, was removed before Dr Black's time from its original stone; it bore the indents of the various parts now missing, which were arranged as follows: a shield (bearing the arms of Ratclyff impaling Holcroft?), surmounting large figures of William Ratclyff (dexter) and Elizabeth his wife (sinister), in the centre, with small figures of the son behind his father, and the daughters behind their mother, the quadrangular plate bearing the inscription being placed below. The figures of the three daughters with the quaint English inscription of seven lines are all that remain. The daughters are represented in "Queen Mary" bonnets, consisting of a closely-fitting linen or velvet cap with a frontal of horse-shoe form and backed by a short veil, their hair is parted as in modern times, ruffs appear at the neck and wrists, while a long plain gown, slashed and quilted in the sleeves and confined by a girdle at the waist, is divided thence to the feet in order to shew a petticoat with an ornamental border. The height of the figures is $8\frac{1}{4}$ inches, and the inscription measures $23 \times 6\frac{1}{2}$ inches. The plates are very thin and the engraver has spoilt the effect of the design by his attempt to indicate the perspective by means of cross-hatching and parallel lines, so characteristic of monumental brasses of this latter period.

The Ratclyff brass bears this inscription incised in Gothic letters :

"Here lyeth y^e bodies of Wylm Ratclyff late of Wylmleigh & Astley in y^e | County of Lanc^r Esquier, & Anne hys wyff, Doughter of s^r John Holcrofte | Knyght & foure of theyre chylderen y^b ys to say one sone & thre dought^r | ters, which Wyllm Ratclyff Dyed the xvth day of July in the yere of our | Lorde god MCCCCCLXI, and in the thyrde yere of the reigne of | Quene Elyzabeth: and allso ioynayng to this lyeth the body of y^e sayd Syr | John Holcroft Knyght which Dyed in y^e yere of o^r lorde 1560."

The second brass is much thicker but by no means so deeply incised, measuring $11\frac{3}{8} \times 7\frac{1}{2}$ inches, and consists merely of an inscription of eleven Latin lines to the memory of Elizabeth widow of Ralph Egerton, Esq., of Ridley, co. Chester, and daughter and co-heiress of Peter Warburton, Esq., of Arley, in the same county. Both brasses have now been mounted on marble slabs and adorn the western wall of the south aisle.

The Egerton inscription incised in Roman capitals reads as follows :

"Svbter hoc tymvlo iacet inhvmatvm cor= | pvs Elizabethæ Egerton vidvæ qvondam vxoris | Radvlphi Egerton (dvm vixit) de Ridley in co= | metatv Cestriæ armigeri defunctvm (sic) et v= | nivs filiarvm et coheredvm Petri Warbvrt= | on qvondam de Arley in cometatv prædicto | armigeri defvntvm (sic) qvæ qvidem Elizabet= | ha ex hac lvce migravit die Dominico | (viz.) septimo die Febrvarii inter sext= | am et septimam horam mane anno Domini 1646 Iohannes Sale Scvlpsit."

In the vestry are preserved two portraits of former officiating clergy; one is a valuable quarto engraving of Thomas Wilson in his episcopal habit, the other of Joseph Jones, B.D., who published many volumes of sermons.

Newchurch possesses communion plate of great value. The silver communion cup, of peculiar design, was given by Dr Richard Sherlock, rector of Winwick, to his nephew Bishop Wilson. A careful description of it has been published by the Rev. H. A. Hudson, M.A.* The vessel stands six and a half inches high and measures four and a half inches across the top as well as across the base. It is of the "wine glass" shape and bears traces of gilding on the outside. The cup is thought to have been hammered out by a local smith from a pre-Reformation chalice, seeing that examination by a magnifying glass reveals distinct signs of a crucifix, which frequently occurs on one side of the foot of such chalices. These indications can only be observed on one side and are bounded by two dotted lines gradually converging above. The communion cup is somewhat roughly fashioned and bears no hall-mark. Mr Hudson considers it worthy of an honoured place in the list of local church plate, and inclines to include it in one sense in the number of less than forty known examples of pre-Reformation chalices. He adds "Indeed, we may look upon it as a connecting link, both in material and in some features of design, between the typical pre-Reformation chalice and the post-Reformation communion cup."

The paten is of a quaint type, bent out of shape.

A handsome silver flagon bears the inscription

"Presented by Edward Leech, Esquire, 1763."

The above gentleman, who was of Salford, by his will dated 13 November 1760, and proved at Chester 23 Feb. 1763, bequeathed £20 to buy communion plate for Newchurch in Culcheth.

THE REGISTERS.

Vol. I., bound in old calf, consists of 57 leaves of parchment $12\frac{3}{4} \times 6$ inches and two leaves of paper the same size, and five leaves (one cut) of paper $12\frac{3}{4} \times 4$ inches.

Vol. II., bound in vellum, consists of 60 leaves of parchment $15 \times 6\frac{1}{4}$ inches.

Vol. III., bound in vellum, consists of 113 leaves of parchment, $12\frac{3}{4} \times 7\frac{1}{8}$ inches, of which ten leaves in the middle are blank and some cut away irregularly.

Beside containing features common to all records of this kind, the Registers of Newchurch are documents of unusual interest, for here and there we light upon the names of persons who made their mark in their day and generation. There resided in this parish the famous Lieutenant-Colonel of the parliamentary army, John Holcroft, and other members of that family, of whom more later.

A truly remarkable figure appears in the Registers under the date 1650 (vide p. 217) in the person of Thomas Blood, who on June 21* of that year, married Mary, daughter of John Holcroft of Holcroft, a Lieutenant-Colonel in the army of the parliament. Blood, after attaining to the rank of Colonel in the same army, gained by his subsequent misdeeds undying notoriety. Having been deprived of his estates in Ireland, he determined, out of revenge, in 1663, to seize Dublin Castle and his enemy the Duke of Ormonde, then lord lieutenant, but his design was frustrated. His second attempt to secure the person of the Duke met with more success; this occurred (when having assumed the name of Ayliffe, he was passing for a physician), on December 6, 1670, and took place in St James's St., London, his victim, though dragged from his horse and conveyed some distance towards Tyburn, only escaping with the greatest difficulty. The Duke's offer of a large reward for the arrest of his captor failed. In the following year Blood laid his ingenious and impudent plot to carry off the crown jewels from the Tower of London. Accompanied by friends, himself in the guise of a parson, he prevailed upon the custodian to allow his friends to see the regalia at an early hour. Having belaboured the keeper on finding him to be without assistance, and thinking him to be dead, they seized upon the booty, but an alarm was raised, and although they had succeeded in crossing the moat they were overtaken and thrown into prison in the White Tower. On being brought for trial before Charles II. at Whitehall, Blood's veiled threats produced such an effect upon the King that he not only received a free pardon but also an estate in Ireland and an annual pension of £500 in 1673. Eventually he became a court favourite and resided at Westminster, where he died, August 24, 1680†. One authority states that he died in prison‡, having mortgaged his estates and squandered his inheritance. A striking portrait of him has been left to us by a contemporary diarist§ who met him in May, 1671, at a nobleman's house in London. No very flattering description to be sure: "one Blood, that impudent bold fellow who had not long before attempted to steale the imperial crowne itselſe out of the Tower....The man had not onely a daring but a villainous unmercifull looke, a false countenance, but very well spoken and dangerously insinuating." Colonel Blood's eldest son, Thomas, was baptized at Newchurch, March 30, 1651 (vide p. 15). Mr J. P. Rylands, F.S.A.*, has enquired into the subsequent fortunes of the family of Blood, and from his notes we gather that one of the Colonel's younger sons, Holcroft Blood, had a distinguished military career; he commanded the artillery at the battle of Blenheim, rose to the rank of Major-General and died without issue in Brussels in 1707. His elder brother, Thomas Blood, junior, born at Newchurch, had a son, Captain Edmond Blood of Albany, N.Y.

The name of Thomas Wilson the eminent and pious Bishop of Sodor and Man, who from 1686 to 1692 served as curate here, merits a more conspicuous notice than we are able to devote to him in this place. Our space being limited we must allow the sketch of his career which has been embodied in the Register (pp. 225—227) to suffice. The first volume of the Register probably owes its preservation to his care, for a note on the first page signed "T.W." tells us that it "was new bound at y^e Parish Charge" in 1688.

Quite a curiosity in its way is the list of births (pp. 144—145) of the children of Papists and Presbyterians, which one does not expect to meet with in a parish register. The former extend from June 24, 1699 to Feb. 23, 1705⁵/₆, and the latter beginning on the same date conclude on Feb. 7, 1711⁸/₉. Their inclusion can only be accounted for by the desire of the clergyman at that time to make his register as complete a record as possible.

We discover another unusual feature in the tentative list of parish clerks of Newchurch, some of whom have a great deal to answer for. Their illiteracy was in some cases astonishing; but as an expert in cacography one John Monks, who for forty-two years discharged the duties of this office, surpassed them all. Yet the entire collection of blunders we quote hereafter must not be laid at his door: neither his forerunners nor his successors are by any means blameless. The earlier entries in Latin written neatly by scholarly ecclesiastical hands present a vast contrast to the sprawling, untidy efforts of many of the parish clerks.

At Monks' hands the word "baptized" becomes distorted into: babtized, bpaptized, paptized, baptized and baptizad; and February appears in various forms, e.g. Febury, Febeury, Feburley and Feburaray. The burials are entered under a wonderful array of headings including buirels, buirals, buiarales, buiarils and buiarles. In one place we read Jackey Els John, in another, John Rouboton Els Jaeckey.

* New England Hist. and Geneal. Reg., July, 1899.

Numerous and remarkable variants of surnames will be found in the index ; but we cannot forbear to quote a few of the strange disguises in which many familiar Christian names are recorded. Moyels and Geoyels indicate the local pronunciation of Miles and Giles respectively, and although the following examples are certainly monstrosities in spelling they perhaps sufficiently closely resemble the correct form as to require no explanation : Eizabell, Eziball, ELigjah, Bejuman, Lydaiah, Lusey, Lorans, Ginney, Lissey, Daived, Nicklas, Samull, Samuewell, Reachill, Phabey, Shusan, Shushann, Chatrine, Caktirn, Rebecak, Rebecakah, TabAthey, AlikSander and Greace. The word "Papist" is converted into Papass, but in all this wilderness of shocking spelling the transformation of Eccles into Ecakes will probably be regarded by the reader as the masterpiece ! It need hardly be pointed out that while such enormities have afforded considerable amusement to the transcriber and have thereby relieved the tedium of the work, they have at the same time added materially to the difficulties of making a copy verbatim et literatim.

Some of the parish clerks have incurred the grave charge of tampering with the registers for considerations of filthy lucre. About sixty years ago a reward was offered for information as to John and Richard Jenkinson, whose heirs were entitled to a considerable sum of money. Forged entries of their respective baptisms may be found recorded on pp. 61 and 69. - Again, many false insertions have been detected under the name of Flitcroft, members of which family had emigrated to America ; their descendants have been supplied, as the result of such fraudulent practices, with much valueless genealogical matter.

At p. 204 John Jones is described as "a ancient Britoner," surely not on account of his Welsh descent. Is this a reference to a society such as the Order of Oddfellows, or does it relate to some company of volunteers*?

Trades and professions are not often noted, but among them we find references to one blacksmith, brazier or brasfer, butcher, linnen weaver, maidservant, husbandman, millner, clerk, sexton, taylor and wheelwright, and in 1805 Peter Thomason is described as "the Celeybrated bagpipe plear." The clergy are variously designated as : curate, incumbent, ecclesiast(es), pastor or vicar. The title "revrand" is first mentioned in 1773.

* In the registers of Christ Church, High Harrogate, occur numerous entries of membership of the "Ancient British Fencibles." The Fencible Light Dragoons founded 1794 and numbering 14,000 volunteers were disbanded about 1800 (Haydn, Dict. of Dates).

A number of wayfarers were interred in the churchyard, one of them being described as "W^m—— an Irishman."

Not often are the causes of death named, but a solitary case is attributed in each instance to old age and drowning; one man in 1729 was killed and another was hanged in 1708. "Febur" if intended for fever accounts for another death.

Occasionally we get a glimpse of passing events. On Nov. 6, 1642, Geoffrey, son of James Bell, was baptized, his father having been slain in Ireland, where it is possible that as a protestant settler in Ulster he may have fallen a victim to the fury of the Romanists who massacred 40,000 of them. A single line records the rebuilding of the church in 1743, and the late Dr Black has inserted an interesting statement that in the previous year at Soham Church near Ely, a brief for this purpose resulted in the collection of one shilling and sixpence.

At p. 230 we read a brief was issued under the great seal for the benefit of the inhabitants of Heydon (Hedon) in Yorkshire, and on March 29, 165 $\frac{8}{9}$, was responded to by the parishioners of Newchurch to the extent of six shillings and twopence.

A number of entries ranging from 1640—85 (pp. 228—230) refer to the "Stocke money," a fund to be applied to the maintenance of the curate; this was apparently lent at the rate of six per cent. interest per annum.

Miscellaneous matters have been jotted down inside the covers of the registers as well as in the body of the book. Among these are the eight leonine verses copied from the battlements of Winwick church; to these an English translation has been appended. Latin notes by the Rev. T. Heyes and the Rev. J. Saul respectively, may be found at pp. 225 and 227. A list of benefactors to the church, school and poor of Culcheth is printed at pp. 231, 232, followed by an extract from the will of Mr Johnson.

An early note occurs on p. 230, signed by Richard Mallorie, "a ffiftenth in all the Town of Culcheth is ffiue nobles*," shewing the amount due from Culcheth on the occasion of the imposition of a tax of one fifteenth.

A few notes regarding the ancient local territorial families may be of interest.

Gilbert de Culcheth, lord of Culcheth, who died about the year 1246, married Cecily, lady of Laton. His four daughters and co-heiresses, Ellen, Margaret, Joan and Beatrix, were married to the four sons of Hugh de Hindley, Robert, Richard, Thomas and Adam.

Robert and Ellen succeeded to the estate of Risley and bore that name. Richard and Margaret had the Culcheth lands and were styled de Culcheth, Thomas and Joan obtained the Holcroft part of Gilbert's estate and took their name from their property, and Adam and Beatrix, who appear to have taken Pesforlong for their share, retained the name of Hindley.

The Risleys continued as landed gentry at Risley until the eighteenth century, when the family ended with John Risley, Esq., who died unmarried in 1702, at the early age of 27. He was buried at Winwick Church, where there is an interesting brass to his memory, bearing an inscription over his arms: Quarterly 1st and 4th an eagle preying upon an infant in swaddling clothes, 2nd and 3rd three antique drinking horns with legs; crest, in a tree, an eagle preying upon an infant in swaddling clothes; motto, *Fato prudentia major.

To the same family belonged the Rev. Thomas Risley, M.A., fellow of Pembroke College, Oxford, who was compelled to surrender his fellowship on account of non-conformity and built Risley Chapel about 1707. On his death in 1716 he was succeeded by his son the Rev. John Risley, M.A. of Glasgow, who died in 1743 and was buried at Risley Chapel near to his father †.

The Culcheths were seated at Culcheth Hall from the thirteenth century until 1747, when the last male representative of the family, Thomas Culcheth, Esq., died without issue, the estate passing to his father's sister, Catherine, who conveyed it to her husband, John Trafford of Croston, Esq. The Culcheths were Roman Catholics and were allied with many of the old local families of the same faith. A branch of the family resided at Abram, near Wigan ‡.

The Holcrofts made a greater mark in history than either the Risleys or the Culcheths, and branches of the family spread from Holcroft to various parts of England. Sir John Holcroft, knighted at the Coronation of Edward VI., was among the "Knights dubbed by the King on Sunday the day of his coronation the 20 of February being crowned to the nombre of 40 in lieu of the Bathe wch then could not be perfourmed accordinge to all ceremonyes thereto belonginge the tyme for that pourpose being to shorte*." His grand-nephew, Lieutenant-Colonel John Holcroft of Holcroft, was concerned in the shedding of the first blood in the Civil War†. He left £80, the interest thereof to be paid to the Curate of Newchurch (vide p. 232). Colonel Holcroft's daughter Mary became the wife of Colonel Blood, and his son Thomas Holcroft dying in 1667 and leaving only female issue, the estate went to his brother Charles, who died without issue in 1672, when the property passed to Thomas' daughter Eleanor, wife of Thomas Tyldesley, Esq. After the death of Charles Holcroft, Colonel Blood, his brother-in-law, unsuccessfully attempted to obtain the estate.

Sir Thomas Holcroft of Vale Royal was a younger brother of Sir John Holcroft, named above. He was knighted by the Earl of Hertford, the King's Lieutenant-General, at Leith, "after the destruction of Edenborough and other townes," Sunday the 11th May, 1544. Sir Thomas was a dealer in church property and added to his wealth by marrying the heiress of a London Alderman. His daughter became the wife of Edward, third Earl of Rutland, and was the mother of Elizabeth Manners, who was married to William Lord Burghley. Sir Thomas was succeeded by his only son Sir Thomas Holcroft of Vale Royal, knighted by King James at York, 17 April, 1603, who "sould all his lands and lived in London, where falling downe a paire of staires brake his neck‡." He left a son, also named Thomas, who died without issue. The Vale Royal estate was sold in 1616 to Lady Cholmondeley.

Twelve generations of Holcrofts succeeded one another at Hurst, an estate in Glazebury. The last owner of Hurst removed to Newton-le-Willows, and was buried at Winwick as "Thomas Holcroft, of Newton, Esq." on the 19th February, 1707--8.

A branch of the above family left Hurst and settled at East Ham, in Essex, at the end of the sixteenth century. One of them, Sir Henry Holcroft, was knighted at Whitehall, 1st May, 1622, and was the father of S^r John Holcroft of East Ham, whose fifth son Francis, of Clare Hall, Cambridge, was an itinerant nonconformist preacher, sometimes called "the Apostle of Cambridgeshire," and suffered imprisonment for nine years in Cambridge Castle; he died in 1693.

The Holcrofts of Balderton, in Nottinghamshire, descended from Sir John Holcroft, of Holcroft, who died in 1560.

The Holcrofts of Basingstoke, Hants., whose first recorded ancestor was William Holcroft "born in Cheshire," produced a knight in the person of Sir William Holcroft, of Walthamstow, in Essex, who died in 1689*.

The inscriptions inside the church and many notes have been kindly supplied by the Rector, to whom we now tender our thanks. Our thanks are due to Mr J. Paul Rylands, F.S.A., for particulars of the clergy and notes on the local families; Mr Rylands has also always placed his knowledge and experience at our disposal.

The admirable index has been supplied by Miss Amy Wilson to whom warmest thanks are due.

[On four inserted leaves of paper at beginning of Vol. I.]

The life of the Right Rev^d Thomas Wilson, D.D., Lord
Bishop of Sodor & Man.

He was born at Burton Wirral in Cheshire December 20th.
1663 of honest parents (his own words) fearing God. From a private school at Chester he was removed to Trinity College Dublin to study Physick, and after that Divinity. June 29th.
1686 he was ordained a deacon. He left Ireland soon after, and was licensed in December following to the Curacy of Newchurch in the Parish of Winwick Lancashire of which his maternal Uncle Dr: Sherlock was then Rector) at the small stipend of 30£. a year living with his Uncle. he set apart for charity one tenth. October 20th 1689 He was ordained priest, his amiable deportment recommended him to the 9th Earle of Derby to be chaplain in 1692. With the salary of 30£ a year, he was soon Elected Master of the Alms House at Latham which brought him in 20£ a year.
He appropriated one fifth of his income to pious and charitable uses. Lord Derby offered him the Rectory of Baddesworth in Yorkshire which he refused, his Lordship saw his motives in the right light, offered him Bishoprick of the Isle of Man, which had been vacant ever since 1693. This Mr. Wilson at first modestly declined, till A^bp. Sharp complaining to King W^m of the long vacancy, the King insisted on Lord Derby immediately nominating a Bishop or otherwise he would fill it up himself. On Jan^y 15. 1697, being first created L.L.D. by A^bp. Tenison he was confirmed Bishop of Man at Bow Church and the next day consecrated at the Savay Church by A^bp. Sharp. On April 5. 1698 he landed in his diocese and on the 11th he was enthroned in the Cathedral of St. German in Peel Castle. On his palace which he found ruinous, the demesne lands etc., he expended the sum of 1400[£]. The liuing of Baddesworth again was offered him but he refused it. On July 16th 1698 he laid the foundation stone of a New Chapel at Castle Town. In September he went to England and on Oct^r 27th was married at Winwick to Mary daughter of Thomas Patton Esq^r of Warrington with whom he returned to his diocese in April 1699. By her he had Two Sons and two Daughters, who all died young except Thomas the youngest, born August 24th 1703, now D.D., now Prebendary of Westminster and Rector of St. Stephon's, Walbrook. The reuenues of the see did not exceed 300[£] in money out of which the Bishop cloathed the Naked, fed the Hungry etc. etc. H. Richardson scrip^t Mar, 3rd 1812.

In 1699 he published a small tract in Monks. In 1703 he obtained the Act of Settlement which is mentioned in his History of the Isle of Man. Mrs. Wilson died at Warrington withar the Bishop had accompanied her some Months before. on March 7th 1704. On March 3rd 1707 he was made DD in full Convocation at Oxford, and the same honour was decreed him June 11th at Cambridge. Being at London he preached before Queen Anne on Holy Thursday, but declined an English Bishoprick, nor ever be induced to sit in the H. of Lords. In 1716 he increased his Charity donations to Three tenths, and in 1718 to Four tenths of his rents, one tenth of the demesne and customs, and Two tenths of his English Estate. The King (Geo: 1st) offer'd him the Bishoprick of Exeter. A Fund for the Clergyman's Widows in his diocese was established by him. In 1734 he came to England for his last time to visit his Son and Daughter, when he was particularly noticed by Geo. the 2nd and his Queen. The Bishop's assiduity in securing his Clergy their revinues on the death of the Earle of Derby 1739, his assistance to the people in a time of Drought and Famine 1741, etc. are shining parts of his character. But we must be brief, we shall only add that his plan for translating the New Testament into the Manks language, he lived to see no further accomplished than the translations of the Gospels and the printing of St. Matthew, gently expiring on March 7th. 1755 in the 93 year of his Age, and the 58 of his consecration. He was interred at the East end of Kirk Michael church yard and over his Grave is placed a Square Marble monument (with a too modest inscription he so justly deserved).

Let this Island speak the truth.
